The anterior portion, the true buccal cavity, bounded anteriorly by the lips and laterally by the cheeks, is properly merely the beginning of the digestive tract which serves for the reception and the first manipulation of the nutritive material. In it are found the tongue with the organs of taste, the teeth, and the openings of the salivary ducts. There is no sharp dividing line between it and the posterior portion, the pharynx, although the part uniting these two is narrowed by the velum palati above, the arches of the palate laterally, and the epiglottis below to form the isthmus of the fauces. The pharynx belongs to the respiratory as well as to the digestive system, the two tracts crossing each other in it; by the act of swallowing the digestive canal is shut off from the respiratory tract by...

Reviews

Basically no terms to clarify. It is actually written in basic terms rather than confusing. I found out this ebook from my dad and I suggested this book to find out.
